THIGH BROKEN.—Mrs. Lavinia Montgomery suffered a very painful accident on Saturday morning. She was walking in front of her residence and stepped on a plank coated with ice, which turned and threw her in such a position as to break the upper extreme femur of the left side. She was immediately cared for and is now doing well, though suffering considerably.

It is told of a new justice of the peace in this county that when called upon for the first time to swear the appraisers of a certain estate, he hesitated a few moments and then broke out, "Gentlemen, will you be damned if you don't do this business right, according to the truth and nothing but the truth?" We refrain from giving his name, but George Carpenter says he is ordinarily a pretty Bright sort of a fellow.

THE Justices met yesterday and decided by unanimous vote to allow Mrs. M. S. Holmes, daughter of the deceased Poor-House Keeper to continue her father's contract to board the paupers at $65 per year for all over 12 years and $35 for all under. Alex. Collins and wife and Allen Collier were added to the recruits at the Poor-House. Squires Adams and Landand County Attorney Carpenter were appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Eq. M. S. "OUR LOSS IS YOUR GAIN."—We will close out our stock of saddles and harness damaged by the fire at city prices and give you a discount of 20 per cent. Cash only. W. R. Carson & Son, Lancaster street.

VENNOR predicted cold, snowy and sleety weather for the week beginning with Sunday and a cold, wet and protracted spring. He risked nothing in the first prediction as we always have a storm about the equinox. Speaking of the weather, Saturday and Sunday were model spring days and made one feel good all over. Yesterday was cloudy and ended in rain.

THE U. S. Court on Saturday sentenced the Lincoln county counterfeiters as follows: Elias Webb six years at hard labor; George Kinder four years; Price Hundley four; Parks Abbott four and Dudley Vaughn five. The latter was on bail for killing C. C. Cookendorfer at Milledgeville last year, but he will hardly be tried at this term of our court.

CHOKED TO DEATH.—Frank Wolford Sigel, who was convicted of the murder of James and John Adair and James Clairborne, whose bodies he afterwards threw over a cliff near Point Burnside last year, paid the penalty with his life at Somerset Friday. The careless and dogged demeanor with which he had conducted himself since his conviction gave away Wednesday to extreme horror of his approaching end and refusing to eat from that time till his death, he spent the hours in weeping and praying. He was so weak and trembling that he had to be carried to the gallows and supported while the work of pinioning and adjusting the rope was in progress. All efforts to get him to make a confession were futile. "He did not do the killing," he said, "but knew who did and would die with the secret." The knot slipped when the drop fell and Sigel died of strangulation in five minutes. He had previously sold his body to a couple of doctors and after it was cut down it was turned over to them. The Republicans held its forms open till after the execution and published a full and authentic account of the incidents connected with it.

A GREAT number of our patrons knowing the condition of our office after the fire, have asked us how it was possible for us to get so full an account of the configuration in our regular edition almost before the danger was over; and we will explain. In the early part of the night we had printed off the full number of papers and prepared most of them for the mail. To open these and get a supplement in them would take more time than to destroy that edition at a cost of $20 and get out another. So we decided on the latter course. Then it was necessary to hunt all over the court-house yard for the forms, which when found had to be washed of the mud and dried. Another search revealed the wet type cases of the proper font and the work of writing the account and setting it up began. A column of matter was taken from the forms of the first edition, the account placed in its stead and our steam press was soon throwing off new papers at a lively rate. The labor, vexation and extent of task can only be appreciated by those who saw or can imagine the disordered state of the office and the demoralized condition of the force. All of our subscribers got the last edition.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Owsley opened the spring term of his court yesterday at 9 A. M. and immediately set to work. He was suffering from a severe cold and the Commonwealth's Attorney, R. C. Warren, being very hoarse, Judge M. C. Sauley was pressed into service to charge the grand jury and he did it well. The following constitute that jury: J. W. Weatherford, foreman; R. R. Gentry, R. B. Ward, W. S. Wigham, F. M. Yowell, James Taylor, W. A. Coffey, H. J. Darst, J. M. Martin, Ed Carter, Jno. Buchanan, A. G. Coffey, C. F. Epperson, T. C. Robinson, Daniel Stagg, R. L. Porter.

The petit jury is as follows: Geo. D. Hopper, A. K. Denny, J. H. Hiatt, George W. King, S. A. Middleton, J. M. White, C. B. Sampson, Larkin Wells, J. J. McKinney, J. A. Lyle, Geo. Holmes; A. B. McKinney, L. B. Nunneley, John Spiers, W. H. Wright, T. J. Hiatt, T. W. Blackerby, T. J. Robinson, T. L. Carpenter, E. P. Woods, J. J. Spears, David Scott, T. J. Pollard, J. A. Harris.

A great many cases were disposed of in one way or another and a number tried. Craig Skidmore for giving minors liquor and Green Skidmore for malicious cutting, were both acquitted. Dick Baker for disturbing religious worship was fined $20; Wm. Barnett, concealed weapons, no proof. The murder case of James Mullins was set for to day and the case against J. R. Napier, concealed weapons, George Dollins, malicious shooting and wounding were set for the 8th day. The L. & N. was on trial at adjournment for evening for failing to whistle at a certain crossing.

Fire Echoes

Our account of the big fire, although necessarily hastily written and printed in an office torn topy-turvy by kind friends anxious to save our property from the threatened flames, contained about all there was to say at the time. With the exception of the three-story brick building belonging to Henry Baughman and the Odd Fellows, the other buildings were of wood and a constant menace to the rest of the block. Their removal will no doubt prove a blessing in disguise, for their owners are nearly all able to replace them with brick structures that will be an ornament to the town and they will do so at once. The losses all told foot about $25,000. Mr. Baughman is heaviest loser, as he had no insurance on his building, which was worth fully $3,000. The Odd Fellows owned the third floor, which with its furniture and paraphernalia was valued at $2,000, on which there was $1,400 insurance in the Phoenix of Hartford. Harris & Murphy occupied the ground floor of the same building, with a bakery and confectionery and their loss, about $800, is complete, as they were not insured. Mr. J. T. Harris, of the firm named, lived on the second floor and he and his wife lost all their furniture and clothing, worth perhaps $500.

Mrs. J. E. Portman owned the next building and occupied the second story as a residence. She had $800 insurance in the Aetna on the building and none on her furniture. Her loss is about $600. W. R. Carson & Son had their saddlery and harness stock, shop and tools on the first floor and their loss is principally in damage to their goods by removal, which they say is $250. No insurance. They have opened up again at the McRoberts house on Lancaster street.

The next building contained two large store-rooms on the ground floor belonging to Col. T. W. Miller and above them the residence of A. R. Penny. The store rooms were insured for $3,000 in the Union of Pennsylvania, and the Colonel regards his loss at about $1,000 over that amount. Mr. Penny had $900 on his house in the North British and Mercantile and $300 on his furniture in the London & Liverpool & Globe. He thinks his loss about $1,000. Col. Miller also had the end of his store-room that fronts on Lancaster street considerably damaged. It is insured for $500 in the London & Liverpool & Globe. One of Col. Miller's store-rooms was occupied by A. A. Warren as a grocery. He estimates his loss at $500 above his insurance, which is $1,000 in the Phoenix and $600 in the Aetna. He will remove to the old Davis store-room on Depot street for the present. The other store-room contained the clothing stock of George H. Bruce & Co., which they had insured for $6,000; $2,000 each in the Home of New York, North America and Aetna of Hartford. They say their loss will be between $1,000 and $2,000. For the present they will occupy Mr. Craig's store-room near the Methodist church.

The other losses are on the goods removed, many of which were wetted and ruined. Metcalf & Owsley claim a loss of $225. They were insured in the North Western National of Wisconsin for $1,500. David Kline was insured in the Manufacturers of Boston and his loss is said to be $2,000. Geo. D. Weasen and J. W. McAllister were fully insured in the North American and lost perhaps $100. W. H. Higgins lost about $1,000. He had $1,500 in the London & Liverpool & Globe and the same amount in the Aetna of Hartford. M. D. Elmore sustains a loss by reason of the cracking of his store-room wall by heat, but is fully insured.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL'S building is badly damaged by the same cause and it is very probable that the western wall will have to be torn down and re-built. In that event the loss will be $1,000, with perhaps an additional $100 for "p-lag" of type in its removal. The proprietor had $2,750 insurance on the building, types and presses in the London & Liverpool & Globe and the Phoenix.

Mrs. Kate Dudderar removed her millinery stock on Lancaster street and was damaged by rain and loss about $100. No insurance.

The intense heat blistered the paint on the buildings on the opposite side of the street and cracked the heavy plate windows recently put in the First National Bank and Penny & McAllister's.

As fire fighters our people beat the world and we could fill a column with the names of those who deserve honorable mention for their efforts last Thursday night. Even the ladies rallied to the rescue of threatened goods and worked with a will. We want to thank everybody for the noble work done for the principal sufferers and particularly to express our sincere appreciation of the efforts of those who worked so hard to save our movable property and to prevent the flames from destroying our building.

MEASRS. ROWS FORWARD, adjuster for the Aetna, T. A. Manning, for the Phoenix, Cornelius Wheeler, North Western National and A. H. McAttee, of the Manufacturers of Boston, are here and ready to fix up losses.

THE Adjuster of the North Western National Insurance Co., of Wisconsin, Mr. Cornelius Wheeler, settled with Metcalf & Owsley to their complete satisfaction, paying them $225. That's the kind of company to insure in.

JUDGES BROWN united in the holy bonds of matrimony Saturday, James Phelps, aged 20 and Miss Sarah L. Ward, aged 22. After the ceremony which took place in the Judge's office, they sallied out hand in hand and the bride seemed to be the happiest mortal on earth, judging from the peals of laughter that she gave forth as they went up street.

—MR. J. R. WARREN says it was the 13th chapter, 8, 9 and 10 of Acts instead of the 12th, which bears on the organ question.
